GMO STATEMENT:

This product contains corn syrup, which may be produced from genetically modified corn. When corn Syrup is made, only the starch portion of the corn is used. The modification made to corn is in the protein portion. Therefore, the corn syrup ingredient itself is not considered to be genetically modified, but it may have been made from a genetically modified botanical base. At this time, there is no source of corn syrup in the USA that will guarantee that no genetically modified botanicals were used, since even if they plant non-genetically modified corn, the cross pollination in the field may produce genetically modified corn.

*This product does not require Bioengineered labeling disclosure due to the absence of detectable genetic material and/or because it was produced with ingredients from a highly refined process.
